

Japan to San Francisco... to your wall !

'Slice of History'

Three months before the Tokyo 2020 Olympics, Lia Ditton will depart from Choshi, Japan on a mission to row 5,500 nautical miles solo across the North Pacific Ocean to the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco.

18 attempts have been made to row this distance.

Two were successful. Both were men.

Lia Ditton's goal:

- 1st woman &
- 1st person to row land-to-land (the men were towed the last 20 and 50 miles respectively).

To be safe, Lia needs a boat of comparable weight to the boats used by the two men, and a boat strong enough to survive the strength of today's typhoons.

Her new boat has been designed by naval architect Jim Antrim.

Lia is fundraising for the build - slice by slice!

Lia Ditton

RowLiaRow.com/slices

Only 60 Slices!

After her historic row, Lia Ditton's boat will be sliced into 3" ring frames and exhibited as an art installation at a major gallery.

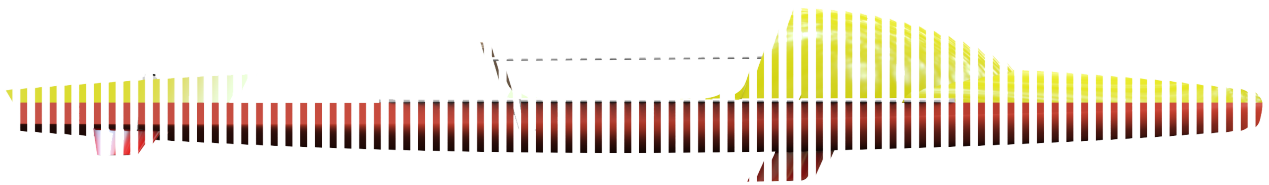

The 60 slices will be hung in order - like the skeleton of the blue whale in the New York Natural History Museum.

These ring frames - Lia calls slices - will go on to decorate 60 walls of offices and homes worldwide, telling the story to generations to come, of Lia's dogged, unwavering perseverance.

Slices will be sold on a 'first come, first slice' basis and are expected to sell fast.

This is a unique opportunity to own a Slice of History.

Lia Ditton

Slices: $3,500 for individuals, $5,000 for corporations

RowLiaRow.com/slices